FREE GUIDE

The 10-Minute Evening Reset

A calm routine to put the day down. No equipment, no experience needed.

The Real Life Quotes
therealllifequotes.com

Why an evening routine

A busy day does not switch off by itself. A short, repeated routine gives your mind a clear signal that the day is done. This one takes ten minutes and uses nothing but a pen, some paper and a quiet corner.

Before you start

- Choose a time about an hour before bed, if you can.
- Keep this page and a pen close by.
- Silence your phone and place it out of reach.

The ten minutes

Minutes 1 to 2: Close the day

Turn off the extra noise: the television, notifications, and bright overhead lights if you can. Dim a lamp instead. Tell yourself the day is finished.

Minutes 3 to 4: Put down the to-do list

Write the three things you want to do tomorrow on a piece of paper. Once they are on paper, they do not need to stay in your head.

Minutes 5 to 6: Slow your breathing

Sit comfortably. Breathe in through your nose for a count of four, and out slowly for a count of six. Repeat for two minutes.

Minutes 7 to 8: Name what went well

Say or write one thing that went well today, however small. A warm drink, a kind word, a task finished.

Minutes 9 to 10: Let it go

Read tonight's quote. Then say to yourself: I did what I could today. That is enough.

Tonight's page

> Slow down. Nothing you are rushing toward is worth losing yourself over.

Tomorrow's three things

One thing that went well today

What I am putting down for tonight

Quotes for the evening

> Let the water settle and it becomes clear. So will your mind.

> Quiet is not empty. It is where you hear yourself again.

> Protect your calm like it is the only one you have.

> Rest is not a reward. It is part of the work.

> You did enough today. Tomorrow can wait.

Seven-night tracker

Tick each night you complete the routine.

☐ Night 1

☐ Night 2

☐ Night 3

☐ Night 4

☐ Night 5

☐ Night 6

☐ Night 7

What I noticed after a week

Keep going, one calm day at a time

Thank you for spending this time with yourself. New quotes and reels are shared on The Real Life Quotes Facebook Page every day, and every quote is also on therealllifequotes.com.

If this guide helped you, share it with one person who could use a calm moment today.

This guide is for general encouragement and reflection. It is not medical or professional advice.